■ Whales & Dinosaurs
Teaches children about whales and dinosaurs; ages 6 to 9
Macintosh Plus or larger; 2 MB of RAM; System 6.0.5 or later; CD-ROM drive.

Whales is a beautifully photographed and illustrated book that teaches children how whales breathe under water, how they are born and how they swim. Sound effects show how whales send messages to each other by making squeaks, clicks and whistling noises.

Dinosaurs has beautiful illustrations and sound effects that help answer some of the dozens of questions children have about dinosaurs. They'll learn how fossilized bones, teeth, eggs and footprints can teach users about dinosaurs — how they lived, what they ate and why they are classified as reptiles.

These interactive titles are complete with text, colorful illustrations, dramatic narration, original music and sound effects. ■ What Air Can Do & Butterflies
Understand the value of air and the metamorphosis of the butterfly; ages 6 to 9
Macintosh Plus or larger; 2 MB of RAM; System 6.0.5 or later; CD-ROM drive.

What Air Can Do helps children understand the value of the substance they breathe. They'll learn how living things obtain air and they'll find out that although air is invisible, air does take up space. Children will be eager to try out some of the experiments: how to pump air into balloons and tires and how to use the power of breath to "move" such objects as dandelion seeds.

In Butterflies, young children will see the metamorphasis from caterpillar to butterfly requires time and patience — but they'll marvel at the results when they see the gorgeous photographs in this book. They'll learn about the butterfly's unique characteristics, including how it finds flowers and extracts nectar from them.

These interactive titles are complete with text, colorful illustrations, dramatic narration, original music and sound effects. Interactive learning software provides pronunciation, syllables, optional Spanish translation and in-context explanations for every word in the text with a click of the mouse. Genealogy program
Macintosh Plus or larger; System 6.0.9 or later; hard disk drive.
MacRoots II is a full-featured genealogy program. It supports up to 10,000 individuals and families, 10 marriages per person and 35 children per family. Four event fields per individual and two per family allow users to record events in a person's life. Flexible event and source documentation is provided, and references to source material are footnoted on Family Group and individual reports. MacRoots provides Family Group, five-generation pedigree, descendants, individual history and linear ancestor charts, as well as a large number of printed lists. MacRoots II is GEDCOM compatible for import and export of genealogy data. There are many unique features to speed data entry, including duplication of records, auto-caps of letters, duplication between records or similar information and duplication of place information within a record. Dot matrix, laser and ink jet printers are supported. Free-form notes for each individual can be up to 32K (about 10 pages) using font, size or style. A separate utility disk is available for exporting charts to disk files, printing blank charts, exporting mailing labels and exporting data files to other database programs.

■ Daily Diet Tracker
Calorie counter and fat intake tracker
Macintosh Plus or larger; FileMaker Pro runtime.

Daily Diet Tracker is a computerized way to count calorie and fat intake. It was designed for dieters who either forget to stay current or find it too difficult to compute their intake with conventional methods. To count fat intake, for example, it's necessary to copy the fat grams off a label, multiply by nine and then divide the results by the total calories listed on the label. This program accomplishes the same task — only computer-swift and computer-accurate. Users merely enter the label-listed fat grams and the program does all the calculations. It is an easy-to-learn, easy-to-use dieting aid that meets the recommendations of almost every diet expert; the need to keep an exact daily record of fat and calorie consumption in accordance with a prescribed diet.

How Do You Build The World's Fastest Digital Video Empire?

Marc Canter, creator of MacroMind Director and multimedia visionary, shown at work on MediaBand's first interactive music video, Un Do Me.

Apply The Hammer.℠

12.4MB/sec and 17.3MB/sec on the Quadra® 840AV. Are the industry's fastest sustained transfer rates the only reason multimedia visionary, Marc Canter, chose the new SledgeHammer™ II and SledgeHammer Wide arrays from FWB? No. Capacities of up to 17.4 gigabytes were important. And his other SledgeHammers got top marks from him, as they had from MacWEEK, MacUser and Macworld. But for his new MediaBand digital music video projects, the measure he applied first was RAID speed. That's why he applied the Hammer.®

But applying the Hammer means more for anyone with any Mac looking for a RAID solution. There are

- high speed optical and SyQuest® solutions for nearline and offline storage.
- the recently Eddy-nominated SCSI JackHammer™ accelerator card (for Best New Storage System) that can increase system performance up to 700%.
- the number one selling RAID ToolKit™ software.
- FWB's PremiumService™ warranty, and pricing that crunches the competition like SledgeHammers crunch data.

Differential FAST/WIDE SCSI-2 accelerator
Macintosh Quadra or Power Macintosh.
The SiliconExpress 4D is a differential FAST/WIDE SCSI-2 accelerator card that transfers data at 20 MB/sec. SiliconExpress 4D extends the SCSI cable length to 25 meters (81 feet), far beyond the single-ended limitation of 6 meters. BusMaster Capabilities allow the SiliconExpress 4D to transfer data directly between the system's RAM and the SCSI bus without using the CPU by taking advantage of the parallel processing capability of the Macintosh NuBus. With its unique RISC-based SCSI processor, The SiliconExpress outperforms the built-in SCSI port by more than 1,400-percent. The SiliconExpress 4D is ideal for applications such as digital video, prepress and file servers that demand high SCSI data throughput with extremely low overhead. The SiliconExpress 4D easily installs into any Macintosh NuBus slot. It is System 7 Pro compatible.

■ LFR Mark II DPM And LFR Mark III DPM-Digital Photography Model
Digital film recorders
Macintosh Plus or larger.
The LFR Mark II DPM and The Mark III DPM-Digital Photography Model are high-resolution digital recorders. The Mark II has a 4,000 line resolution and the Mark III has an 8,000 line resolution. Both have special features to meet the specific needs of today's photo labs, photographers and graphic designers. The first and foremost of these enhancements includes a special CRT. The CRT is designed to yield a greater density range (DMin.-DMax. range), eliminating the "halo effect" that commonly occurs with negative film. A second key feature is the direct imaging of Adobe Photoshop, TARGA and TIFF file formats. The Mark II DPM comes with 4 MB of memory and the Mark III DPM comes with 8 MB of memory. Both come with specialized look-up tables for negative film. Standard features include a built-in controller, computer controlled geometry for accurate imaging, dynamic focus for image clarity, 36-bits of color for smooth color sweeps, interchangable plug-in communication modules, PC/Windows and Macintosh System 7 compatibility and a one-year warranty.

■ HeadMouse
Wireless head-pointing device for disabled
Any Macintosh with ADB port or mouse.
HeadMouse is a wireless head-pointing device that replaces the standard desktop mouse for users who cannot use their hands. A tiny, disposable sticker is placed on the user's forehead, glasses or wherever the small sensor unit can see it. Users precisely control the movement of the cursor just by moving their head. The sensor unit is usually placed on top of the monitor. Users do not have to wear any equipment and there are no wires attached to the user. HeadMouse is especially useful when used with an on-screen keyboard, such as ScreenDoors, and therefore allows full word processing capabilities as well. Used with "Magic Cursor," users will not even need a switch to do mouse button clicks, providing completely wireless, full control of the Macintosh.

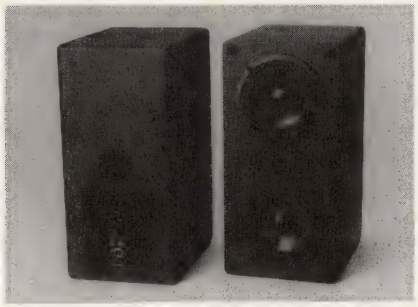
Audix PowerHouse Amplified Speakers
Self-amplified speakers
Macintosh Plus or larger.



The PowerHouse series consists of five models of professional self-amplified speakers for true professional-quality sound. The PH3, PH5, PH6, PH15 and PH25 are all two-way systems producing a deep rich studio level sound with clean, tight bass and smooth, accurate response. Typical features include either 3-inch, 4-inch, 5-inch, 6-inch and dual 5-inch long excursion woofers and a single 3/4-inch polycarbonate dome ferrofluid tweeter. PH series models are available in magnetically shielded and unshielded versions. The advanced PowerHouse amplifiers provide an extremely low distortion rate of just 0.01 THD (Total Harmonic Distortion) in mid-band, delivering the clean, well-defined sound demanded from professional audio equipment. At rated power, other competitively priced brands can have 200 to 300 times more distortion. The small size and big sound of these monitors make them ideal for a number of multimedia applications from home computer games to vital business presentations.

■ ActionScanning System for Macintosh
Color scanner
Any Macintosh.
ActionScanning System is a quality scanning system that includes everything users need to scan and edit images at up to 1,200 dpi, with built-in image processing to save on retouching time. The Epson ActionScanning System incorporates all three light sources in a single scan head. This TruePass technology gives users color scans in a single pass, rather than the typical three passes, providing better scans, easier and with more accurate color. Epson's built-in image processing allows users to manipulate images in preview mode before the initial scan, saving time and improving productivity. The ActionScanning System includes the Epson ES-600C color scanner, Adobe Photoshop 2.5-image editing software, ScanTastic plug-in module and desk accessory and SCSI system cable.

■ SCSIVue Active Diagnostic Terminator
Diagnostic terminator
Any Macintosh.
The SCSIVue Diagnostic Terminator with Active Regulation is a terminator and a SCSI Bus Diagnostic Analyzer. With the built-in active regulator, this terminator instantly adjusts to any system requirements. SCSIVue helps users detect problems before they cause damage to data. The status indicators allow users to quickly diagnose how things are working. SCSIVue status indicators allow users to monitor the acknowledge, request and select signals. These signals are the heart of the SCSI Bus and indicate good, bad or impaired performance. The TRM (Termination Power) indicator lets users know if termination power is being provided properly to the SCSI Bus.

The extra protection continues with the other two layers of shielding. Data is more secure and signal noise is reduced significantly. The connectors are of high-quality gold plating and incorporate a unique molded strain relief. With the Diagnostic Indicator, users can monitor the quality of the connections. ■ DTP32 Color Copier Calibration Tool
Automates calibration and control of dot gain for PostScript color copiers and color proofers
Macintosh Plus or larger; System 6.1 or later; hard disk drive; color copier with PostScript RIP via AppleTalk or Ethernet.

The hardware and software provide automatic calibration that's up to four times faster. The DTP32 is an automatic strip reading color reflection/transmission densitometer for calibration of color output devices. It ensures the consistency and accuracy of digital color printer output. APT Dial Server
Multiport AppleTalk Remote Access server
Macintosh Plus or larger.
The APT Dial Server (Model DS3) is a multiport ARA server that connects up to three remote Macintosh or PowerBook users to an EtherTalk network via dial-up modem connections, and lets them access authorized AppleTalk or TCP/IP resources as through connected directly to the LAN. The DS3 can connect to any modem supported by ARA (or that has an ARA-compatible CCL script available). Each port can operate up to 57.6 Kbaud, supporting today's V.32 and V.32bis modems, and future 28.8 Kbaud V.FAST modems. DS3 servers support standard ARA userID, password and callback security features. Its advanced security features let users define user groups with different access privileges for each group. Users can restrict users in each group to specific zones, networks or even individual devices. The APT Dial Manager (included) lets users manage a group of DS3 servers as a single virtual server from a single Macintosh computer on a LAN (or through a dial-in connection).

■ FastSwitch 10/100
Ethernet switching hub
Any Macintosh supporting 10Base-T adapter.
The FastSwitch 10/100 workgroup switch affordably provides switched 10 Mbps Ethernet for each user and 100 Mbps Fast Ethernet for servers. The hub's 100 percent Ethernet switch design offers a high-performance alternative to 10Base-T hubs, while perserving user investments in Ethernet technology and training. The 25 switched 10 Mbps Ethernet ports on the FastSwitch 10/100 provide private 10 Mbps connections to each client workstation. Two switched Ethernet ports provide higher bandwidth where it's needed most — to the servers. This relieves server bottlenecks and improves overall network performance. The unique ClearChannel architecture and highly integrated ASIC design provide unmatched Ethernet performance. With an aggregate forwarding bandwidth of 220 Mbps, the FastSwitch 10/100 delivers up to 22 times the effective throughput of a 10Base-T hub.

■ FastSwitch 10/100 AG
Ethernet switching hub
Any Macintosh supporting a 10Base-T adapter.
Grand Junction's FastSwitch 10/100 AG is a stackable Ethernet switch that combines 10 Mbps node switching and Fast Ethernet to build high-performance networks of 10 to 200 users and up to eight servers across a 100 Mbps backbone. The FastSwitch 10/100 AG provides the ability to dedicate more throughput to individual users and servers for today's bandwidth-intensive applications. Twenty-four switched 10 Mbps ports, each supporting a single Ethernet address, provide private Ethernet connections to each attached workstation or node. An additional switched 10 Mbps Ethernet port can be used as a direct connection to the 10 Mbps corporate backbone or as a 25th private Ethernet port. The switched 100 Mbps Fast Ethernet port eliminates traditional server bottlenecks by providing a dedicated 100 Mbps path for simultaneous access by users to the server. And the four shared Fast Ethernet ports provide a 100 Mbps backbone for high-bandwidth connectivity to additional servers or to interconnect 10Base-T-compatible hubs.

ComTalk HF/Local
Multiport AppleTalk local router and TCP/IP gateway
Macintosh Plus or larger.

ComTalk HF local routers connect three LocalTalk/PhoneNET networks to an Ethernet. Designed to provide exceptional routing speeds at low prices, the plug-and-play ComTalk HF routers are available in two models. The LR3 model connects up to three LocalTalk networks to an Ethernet. Users also can use the LR3 to split a single LocalTalk network into three separate networks for higher performance, and provide a common connection to an Ethernet. The LR3/IP adds IP gateway services for access to TCP/IP networks and resources, supporting MacIP, IPTalk and atalkad protocols. Any LR3 model can be upgraded to an LR3/IP model with a software IP upgrade option. Both models provide AUI, BNC and 10Base-T connections to an Ethernet. A comprehensive Internet Manager desktop accessory is included with every unit. ComTalk HF routers support Phase 1 and Phase 2 AppleTalk networks, and include SNMP support for AppleTalk and TCP/IP MIBs.

ComTalk HX/Local
Multiport AppleTalk and TCP/IP local router and gateway
Macintosh Plus or larger.

ComTalk HX local routers connect up to two Ethernet and six LocalTalk/PhoneNET networks through a single device. Designed for rack-mounted wiring closet application, ComTalk HX routers dramatically reduce the number of router boxes to be installed (and managed). All ComTalk HX routers provide exceptional routing speeds, and the modular architecture allows port expansions via plug-in modules. The baseline H130 model connects three LocalTalk/PhoneNET networks to one Ethernet. It includes AppleTalk Phase 1 and 2 routing, TCP/IP gateway functions (MacIP, IPTalk and Atalkad) and SNMP support for AppleTalk and TCP/IP MIBs. The H200 provides both AppleTalk and IP routing (optional) between its two Ethernet ports. It can be used to split a congested Ethernet network and improve performance, or to isolate Ethernet-based work groups from backbone Ethernet traffic (while retaining backbone connectivity). Optional LocalTalk ports (up to a maximum of six) can be added to either model as needed. Network management software is included.
$2,500 retail; H130 or H200
$750 retail; additional LocalTalk ports

AppleTalk and TCP/IP remote router and gateway
Macintosh Plus or larger.

ComTalk HX high-speed remote routers provide branch office users with high-speed access to remote LAN resources. Macintosh and/or TCP/IP users can access remote file servers via switched 56 Kbps digital (or 64 Kbps ISDN) services, and transfer large graphics or image files much faster than with AppleTalk Remote Access (ARA) or other modem-based solutions. A built-in AppleTalk/IP gateway also lets Macintosh users access communicate with remote TCP/IP resources on the network. ComTalk HX remote routers operate at all speeds up to 1.544 Mbps (T1 rate), and deliver high throughputs (95 percent at 56 Kbps; 90 percent at 1.544 Mbps). The baseline H011 and H101 models provide remote connections for single LocalTalk and EtherTalk networks respectively. Additional LAN ports can be installed to provide combined local and remote routing capability. WAN ports can be added (up to a maximum of six) for hub arrangements. Network management software is included.

■ Cooperative Access Point Base/Power Unit
Base/power unit
Macintosh SE or larger; AppleTalk; LaserWriter II or larger.
The Photonics Cooperative Access Point Base/Power Unit serves several functions when paired with a Cooperative Adapter. Power for the Cooperative adapter is provided by the Apple Desktop Bus. For non-ADB equipment, the Cooperative Access Point Base/Power Unit acts as a power source. The unit provides AC and battery power options. The Cooperative Access Point Base/Power Unit, when paired with a Cooperative Adapter, also forms an access point through which a wireless cooperative network is linked to an existing wired LocalTalk network.

■ Cooperative Adapter
Wireless networking device
Macintosh SE or larger; AppleTalk; LaserWriter II or larger.
Photonics' Cooperative Adapter is a wireless networking device for all AppleTalk/LocalTalk-equipped devices, such as Macintosh SE or larger, PowerBook, PowerBook Duo, Newton, LaserWriter and other LocalTalk-compatible printers, as well as IBM PCs with LocalTalk network interface cards and software installed. Using diffuse infrared technology, information is wirelessly shared through the air, facilitating networks and information access. Cooperative Adapter's transmission is fully LocalTalk compatible at 230 KB/sec. The Cooperative Adapters do not need to be aimed because the infrared signals fill the room. The entire room reflects the signal, making it very difficult to block, allowing equipment to be placed where it's needed. The robust nature of the transmission provides users with a dependable communication link to others. The range of the infrared LAN is a 25 by 25-foot room. No software is required, the Cooperative Adapter simply plugs into the LocalTalk port and the Apple Desktop Bus for power. For users with non-ADB devices that need to bridge into the wired LAN, an access point base/power unit is available.

■ PhoneMaster
Telephone line hardware interface
Any Macintosh with serial port.
PhoneMaster is a versatile, serial-connected peripheral useful in many applications of computer-telephony integration. PhoneMaster is the telephone-line hardware interface that enables a computer to automate tasks, such as telerep auto-dialers for telemarketing, credit collections and surveying and polling; voice detection in predictive dialers; inbound caller identification for database lookups; and playing audio clips over a telephone connection. It does not contain a telephone itself, but might be described as a Telephone Signal Processor. It is able to decode and report a variety of telephone call progress signals; detect voice and fax callers; play back Windows wave files over a telephone line; record inbound calls into Windows wave files; switch-in a headset on computer command; send and recognize DTMF dialing tones; and extract Caller ID information from an inbound call. PhoneMaster is controlled by the computer through use of the extended AT command language. It is a highly programmable device lending itself to a myriad of novel applications where a computer needs to interact with the telephone network.

■ LANForce-5
External disk array
Macintosh Plus or larger; System 7.0.1 or later.
LANForce-5 is an external disk array subsystem that supports RAID Levels 0, 1, 3 and 5 with its built-in array processor. Because it is a hardware-based approach to RAID, the network server's performance is not compromised by having to handle array functions. Full support is provided for SCSI Manager 4.3, which offers 4.3 MB/sec transfer rates. LANForce-5 supports seven Fast SCSI-2 drives and one additional 3.5-inch, half-height drive. Should a drive fail, LANForce-5 reconstructs data from parity or mirrored data written to other drives in the RAID configuration. The drives, power supplies and fans may be "hot-swapped." Hot and warm sparing is also supported. The basic LANForce-5 includes three fans, two power supplies, three hard drives in 535 MB to 2.1 GB capacities and adaptive cache feature, which offers 0 to 32 MB cache.

The Allsop Airduster 134A contains 4.5 ounces of double filtered compressed inert gas. Safe for the ozone, the Airduster can be used for the precise removal of contaminants from computers, drives, keyboards, fax machines and all other electronic office equipment.

The Allsop Anti-Static Cleaning Towelettes are specifically formulated for safe and effective cleaning of communication and computer equipment.

The Allsop CD-ROM Disc Cleaning System effectively removes surface debris that can hinder the laser beam's ability to accurately read the information stored on the disc. By providing a maintenance system that utilizes a unique radial action, the Allsop cleaner eliminates the possibility of sweeping contaminants parallel to the disc's data pits.

The Allsop Complete Office Care System provides a convenient all-in-one office maintenance kit, including cleaning solutions, disk drive cleaning disks and specially designed devices for maintaining facsimiles, printers, copiers, typewriters, computers and most other office equipment. It also includes a trouble-shooting guide and service manual in a convenient carrying case.

The Allsop CD-ROM Fast Wipes are designed to be used with the Allsop DiscGrip non-cleaning base to provide a safe and effective cleaning system for CD-ROM and Audio CDs. They are packaged with a convenient "zip-lock" pouch.

The Allsop Quarter Inch Cartridge Tape Drive Cleaning Systems are fully automatic. The dual action effectively removes oxides and debris from both the sensitive tape drive head and capstan. Allsop's Ultreen 144 cleaning solution breaks down hardened head contaminants. The absorbent, non-shedding pads allow full conformance to heads and ensure thorough cleaning of the entire head surface.

■ Allsop Storage Systems
Disk storage files, organizers, caddies

The Allsop Library Disk Storage Files are constructed from ultra-durable polypropylene and provide "safe deposit boxes" for data. They feature a compact design and a removable label system for easy cataloging. They are available in both five and 10 disk capacity format.

The Allsop CD Caddy provides convenient and protective storage for valuable CD-ROM discs. The three-pack contains three colorful CD Caddies, allowing for easy indexing of titles.

The Allsop CD-ROM Disc Organizer safely stores and organizes single or multiple CD-ROM and CD sets. In place of slots, which hold each individual disc, the Allsop Disc Organizer utilizes spring loaded retention fingers. The granite colored organizers are stackable, wall-mountable and hold up to 25 discs.

The Allsop Compact Disc Caddy for CD-ROM is a protective case that helps safeguard compact discs from dust, fingerprints and scratches. The discs can be transferred directly into the CD Caddy from its container, minimizing exposure to outside elements.

The Data Cartridge Storage System features a compact design, durable construction and maximum protection.

Each Allsop Disk File/6 Transportable is designed to carry up to six 3.5-inch disks. Molded in three attractive colors, the DF/6 fits conveniently in a briefcase, purse or pocket.

Allsop offers three versions of its Large Volume Disk Organizers accommodating 30 (DF30M) or 80 (DF80M) 3.5-inch disks and 60 (DF60) 5.25-inch floppies. They are equipped with adjustable dividers, indexing labels and constructed with high-impact materials. Its unique hinge design holds the lid in the "up" position and its spring-loaded latch keeps the protective lid securely closed. They are available in platinum gray, grape, cobalt, burgundy, granite and huntergreen.

The Allsop Multi-Media Storage features a unique, compact design that holds many combinations of media. Durably constructed from high-impact materials, it has a built-in handle, a spring-loaded latch that keeps the lid secure, non-skid rubber feet and a snap-in divider system.

Constructed of moisture-resistant cordura, the Allsop Softpack Transportable is designed to carry up to 16 3.5-inch disks. Protective flaps prevent disks from falling out, and two colored Allsop Twin Pack Disk Files allow for ease in locating and identifying specific disks.

Allsop Twin Pack Disk Files house two 3.5-inch disks during storage or transportation. The plastic disk files safeguard disks from environmental contaminants and are compact to fit in briefcases, notebooks and even jacket pockets. Sold four files to a package, the files are colored for easy identification.

■ JitterBox
Magnetic field suppressor
The JitterBox eliminates screen jitter, distortion, waviness and loss of color integrity due to background magnetic field interference with the monitor. The JitterBox shields the monitor by attracting and absorbing these background fields. Interference is prevented; image stability and color purity are restored. Common sources of these background magnetic fields are scanners, other monitors, fluorescent lights, electrical cables and power transformers. The JitterBox protects the monitor against interference from external magnetic field sources. Designed to go around the top, sides and bottom of the monitor, the Jitterbox is available in three sizes and adjusts in height and width to custom fit any size monitor — from 9-inch to 21-inch diagonal displays. No special tools are required for installation.

■ SunPack Super Charger
PowerBook solar power
Macintosh PowerBook.
SunPack Super Charger is two SunPack/PB units and an external box designed for users who need to be able to run their PowerBook all day long on solar power and can't practice battery conservation. The box has plugs to connect the two SunPacks into one cord, doubling the amount of amperage produced by the SunPack units. In combining four solar panels, it provides users with great flexibility and the power to run a Color PowerBook for an extended period of time. Because the SunPack Super Power Unit is actually just two SunPack units and an external box, users have the freedom of carrying just one of the SunPack/PBs when they don't need all the power provided by both units.

■ SunPack/Duo
Duo solar pack
Macintosh PowerBook Duo.
The SunPack/Duo is designed to run PowerBook Duo computers. It employs the same two solar panels as the SunPack/PB, but yields a 12-volt current. The SunPack/Duo provides a charge that nearly equals the power provided by the AC adapter. With good sunlight users can run their Duo all day without having to connect to AC power, or simply recharge their Duo's battery by leaving the panel in the sun and plugging it into the Duo. The SunPack/Duo provides enough juice to sustain the battery of any black and white or gray-scale Duo computer (models 210, 230, 250 and 280). The two solar panels fold up easily, allowing the SunPack to fit in a briefcase or computer carrying case. Users will need to use standard battery conservation techniques, such as allowing the hard disk to "spin down" or allowing the processor to "rest" for the SunPack/Duo to completely run the computer. An additional battery conservation utility, such as Connectix PowerBook Utilities, is recommended.

VST ThinPack
High-density, maintenance-free external power supply
Macintosh PowerBook (models 100 through 180c).
The VST ThinPack is a high-density, maintenance-free external power supply for PowerBook models 100 through 180c. This rechargeable battery is approximately .25-inches thick and weighs just 1.5 pounds, yet it delivers five to nine continuous working hours on all black and white and gray-scale PowerBooks and three to four hours on color models. The ThinPack connects directly to the PowerBook's external power port and works concurrently with the standard internal battery. Furthermore, it charges using the standard PowerBook AC adapter, so no additional peripherals are needed. The ThinPack has no "memory effect" and can be fully charged in just four to six hours. This easy-to-use, convenient-to-carry battery has excellent durability: under normal use, it should last from three to five years. It is also designed for safety: short-circuit protection is built in and this power supply is UL listed. ThinPack Utilities battery management software is included.

It's not a private family matter. Every nine seconds another woman is beaten by her husband or boyfriend. And unless we all work together, it's never going to stop. For information about how you can help stop domestic violence, call 1-800-777-1960.

THERE'S NO EXCUSE
for Domestic Violence.

HERE'S ONE MAILING LIST SURE TO RAISE LOTS OF RED FLAGS.

Doing something that has to do with Macintosh? We know 2,800 or so companies who'd be interested: the developers of the nearly 7,000 Mac-related products listed in the Macintosh Product Registry.

Other lists probably contain some of the same names—along with a lot of other, low-likelihood-of-response names. Such as those who merely use Macs, or perhaps just like to read about them. Only the Registry list puts you in touch with everyone who eats, sleeps and breathes Macintosh. And no one else.

So if you want to tell them something or sell them something or invite them somewhere, or if there's something you'd like them to tell you, this is the list that will keep the post office busy delivering all of your responses.

The Registry list is available in ZIP Code order on pressure-sensitive labels. If you want to raise a lot of red flags without a lot of wasted postage, call us toll-free at 1-800-333-8760.

THERE'S ONE LIFE-SAVING TECHNIQUE ANYONE CAN PERFORM.

Help isn't on the way unless someone calls. So please teach your child what to do in case of an emergency. How to dial 9-1-1. How to give his or her name, address and telephone number. And most importantly, not to hang up. And please, practice with the entire family. Because it's never too soon to start.

Regularly $99, now for a limited time at only $59 each.

For the past 10 years, the Macintosh Product Registry has been the world's most comprehensive listing of hardware and software products available for use on a Mac. (Today, more than 8,000 business, personal, software, hardware and peripheral products are listed.)

More recently, The World Of Macintosh Multimedia has become an indispensable guide to the thousands of products and manufacturers that now support the exploding field of multimedia.

Now, both publications are available on CD-ROM!

Thousands of product names, system requirements, descriptions, pricing, addresses, telephone/fax numbers, software demos and QuickTime movies can be accessed by keystroke. You can print select information if you like, or just view it on your screen. All data is fully indexed by company, product or category...making your search for information simple and painless.

Regularly $99, these CD-ROMs are now being offered for a limited time at only $59 each! For information, contact Julie Van Gaasbeck at 800-333-8760.
